Location of the
Friday Evening Lectures
At The Royal Russell School
Coombe Lane
Croydon

The Croydon Astronomical Society holds our lectures in the Lecture Theatre (Room G4) in the Basement of The Great Hall. The Great Hall is a large Red Brick Building with White Stone embellishment and has a floodlit Belfry as shown below. The lecture theatre entrance is at the far end of the Great Hall as you approach it from the road and on the far side of the building so you need to walk around the end or through the arch in the middle.

Entering from the road there is a Car Park on the left where you should leave your car. From the car park follow the entrance road on foot towards the small roundabout. From there you should be able to see the belfry of the Great Hall illustrated below.

From here walk towards the nearest end of The Great Hall as shown in the next illustration.

When you get to the end of the building walk along the back of the building to the far end when you should see the steps that lead down to the lecture theatre as shown in the third illustration.

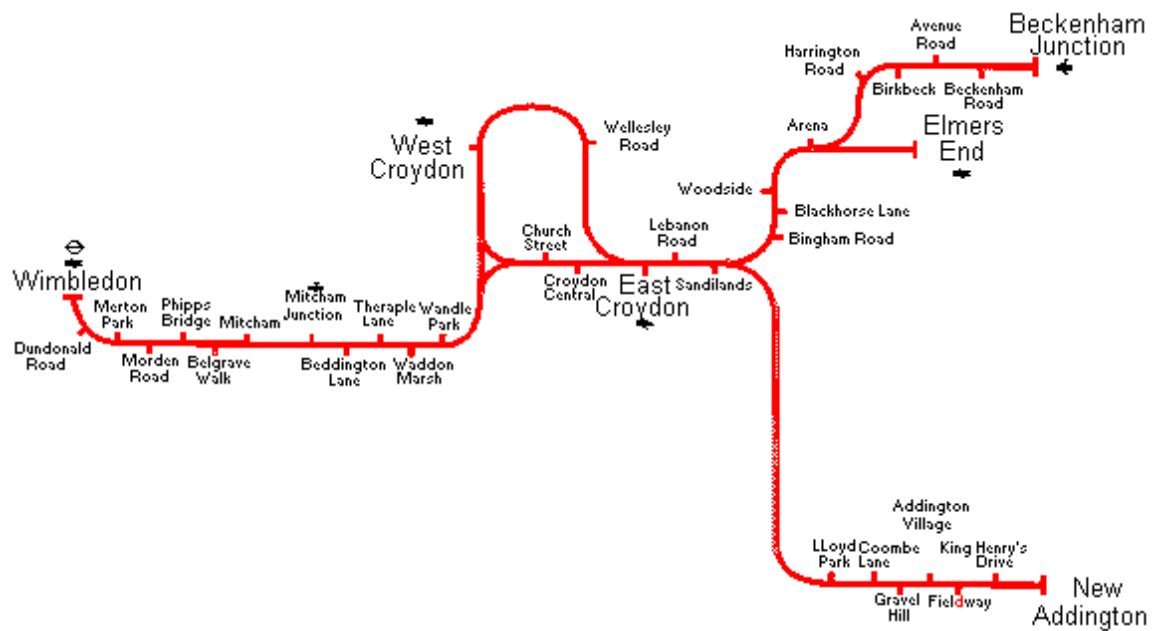

Walk down the steps to the Lecture Theatre (Room G4) which is located at the end of the corridor,
